

THE DEPARTMENT OF CLASSICS PRESENTS

FLEEING SLAVERY IN THE CLASSICAL WORLD

The enslaved in ancient Greece and Rome often tried to escape from slavery and sometimes even succeeded. Fascinating evidence survives about the different measures that masters took to catch runaway slaves. But it is also productive to imagine, as best we can, the point of view of fleeing slaves, an effort which yields important insights.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 7TH

2:00 P.M.

WES Room

Worner Basement

PETER HUNT
Professor of Classics
CU Boulder

FOR MORE INFORMATION CONTACT:
Professor Richard Buxton | rbuxton@coloradocollege.edu