Community Based Research with Florencia Rojo

As we welcome Florencia to our department, we are also very excited about her fourth block class SO390 "Advanced Topics: Community Based Research." In this class, students will examine methodological paradigms and popular tools for community-based research. This course prepares students to leverage sociological research skills towards social change and positive community impact. If interested, reach out to Florencia at frojo@coloradocollege.edu or sign up with the registrar.

Your Student Advisory Board

SAB

Made up of two year-long members and two half year members, we are here to serve as your link between the students and faculty of the sociology department. Our primary goal is to build a community of respect between the students, faculty, and staff of our department. Whether you'd like to create an event, share an experience, or propose a change to the department, we are here to listen!

SAB OFFICE HOURS! COME STUDY, TALK, AND EAT SNACKS WITH US EVERY SECOND MONDAY @ 3 PM IN THE PALMER 130A

"We have to talk about liberating our minds as well as liberating society."

MEET YOUR NEW SAB MEMBERS

Zoe Zhou

I am Zoe Zhou, a senior from China. I am also a minor in Art Studio and Japanese. I was a Junior representative in SAB last year, and I am excited to continue doing this interesting job: it is a really good chance to know your classmates and also faculty.

Genaveve Davis

Hello everyone! My name is Genaveve and I'm a junior here at CC. I'm interested in studying art, culture, mass incarceration and community development. I'm so excited to be a part of SAB this semester and would love to hear from you about events you may be interested in, concerns about the department or whatever else may be on your mind!

Rachel Delley

Hi all! I'm a senior sociology major from Nebraska. I don't have a minor, but I love taking film classes. Being a part of the SAB, I hope to create a really fun department that everyone in and outside the major feels is welcoming and accessible.
