 - Doré: That's never been mandated. Depends on the professor and departments. That's in the demands.

V. Bon Appetit Feedback Discussion

- Increases in theft at Rastalls, (5 gallons of chocolate milk or loaves of bread and fruits) greatly impacting costs
 - Ideas: Educational posters, education class once a month about the costs of food
 - Glorie: Green containers last year. They can't reserve the food. Can we bring those back?
 - Al: Green containers are still a thing - must ask at the front desk and it is an extra cost. Replacement for free if it breaks
 - Glorie: Can they put a sign up about that?
 - Vicente: I have been told you cannot eat at Rastall's and then take food to go.
 - Misbah: People have been policed for that too.
 - Vicente: I believe folks should be able to take food to go after eating. Hard for folks on apartment meal plan.

- Emma: Doesn't make sense bc you can eat as much as you want at Rastall's
 - Royce: First year meal plan - can't meal three meals a day. Taking food to make sure they can eat more meals/breakfast.
 - Al: Bon Appetit is trying to diversify for cheaper options to help with that
 - Reign: I can't tell if the fruit is decoration or to eat.
 - Amy: People clear out the bread display or the whole fruit bowl or 5 gallons of milk.
 - Al: Maybe have a sign that says only take a few to go.
 - Claire: Need better to-go containers and policies - no stealing and less food waste
 - Amy: The more stuff they go through, the more the food plan goes up. If it's harder for people to steal, might go bad quicker
 - Glorie: Stealing because everything is overpriced. An apple is $5.
 - Claire: C Store specifically is expensive.
 - Glorie: Only place to get fruit without running through you money is Rastall's.
 - Misbah: Do we know why C Store is ridiculous?
 - Glorie: I've heard they charge us for potential stealing.
 - Sam: Tylenol at the C Store is $11. I would love an explanation and a breakdown of prices. If you have a headache, you have to spend money on a whole meal.
 - Pume: Can you mention to them that it sounds like they are making up costs bc we are going to steal; why are they criminalizing us?
- Talking to roughly 2 students a week about dietary needs, still an issue with cross contamination (gluten vs gluten-free) - how to publicize dietary restrictions
- Misbah: Why don't we know that there are so many gf options or vegan? What about other options? Why don't we have awareness of the different restrictions? Sometimes the description is wrong. Maybe the structure of the dining hall needs to change; there should be a section that is completely safe.
 - Khyr: The only time I've use utensils outside of their station if they don't have utensils. Not trying to adhere to religious food restrictions. We were told that we would have the correct food but they lied to us.

- Pume: Maybe have someone by the food restriction station instead of the salad section to monitor.
- Al: The concern I have - policing behavior. May not allow certain students to place things on their plates. Someone should help monitor.
- Veronica: Special section for gf - corner for them to find what they want to eat; increasing the options. More fish available and people are missing out on nutrients. Unfair because people are paying for the meal plan. My roommate has a lot of allergies; can only eat salad. Annoying to contact people to meet her restrictions. Helpful to have a poster - special attention to food to contact the chef.
- Vicente: I understand wanting to make the staff monitor, but I want to put ourselves in staff shoes. Undercompensation and the way students treat staff. It's on our end to be kind and improve the dining experience. Everyone deserves to eat well and eat good food. I just don't know how staff feel about monitoring; they are looked down on.
- May: I work in Rastall's. We are in the salad bar is to fill the food. Students just take tongs. I think understaffing is an issue and I see cross contamination - students don't care.
- Al: Bon App was very understaffed last year; might be a little better this year. Trying to find a balance - students treating staff right and students are getting the options they need.
- Khyr: Do you think if they had special colored tongs to diminish contamination? We can make a post about it - respect your peers.
- May: Easier for staff - color coded bins or signs would be great
- Al: Staff serving food - more extreme answer
- Vicente: Might not be great for the staff
- Doré: Broader cultural issues - not considerate, unkind - need to strive for over generations of CC students

VI. Open Floor for Comment

- Maddi: Working on getting vans for Election Day - VSPC - ballot dropoff and registering day-of voting
 - Might require funding
 - Not have class on Election Day - Do we want to push for that?

- Al: Do we need students to drive the vans?
 - Maddi: Yes and if you want to be involved with Get Out the Vote, let me know
- Passion Projects - anyone interested in helping?
 - Block Break ends - application closes
 - Not a big time commitment
 - Need help until the committee can meet again
 - Tess, Al, Claire, tentative: Misbah

VII. Adjournment
