

12JAN26

State of the Rockies Project Assistant/Student Researchers

All majors welcome. $15.16/hour.

The State of the Rockies is HIRING a Student Research and Project Assistants.

Anchor the State of the Rockies 2026-2027 student project teams by helping with field work, GIS, media productions, writing and editing project reports and articles, light administrative duties, and some event planning. Help further the research on SoR's Great blue heron habitat conservation project, Waldo Canyon Fire research project, and other social, economics, and politically focused projects or research your own Rockies topic of academic interest. Help produce our digital and print magazine Anthropogenic and other tasks.

What to expect:

You will work closely with the Rockies Project Specialist who oversees student-led research and projects. As part of the Rockies student assistant team, you'll help create promotional materials, plan and execute student events and contribute content to the digital magazine. This position is ideal for students with an interest in the environmental impacts of human activity and conservation and art/design or journalism/film + media. Demonstrated interest in these areas preferred.

During the academic year: position is 5-10 hours/week depending on the project.

Summer position: 37 hours per week for 10 weeks beginning the first week of June 3 - August 10, 2026 (appx).

This position begins Feb 3, 2026. Deadline to apply January 24, 2026 11:59 PM

Required application materials:

Resume; cover letter; relevant coursework.